Wilmington University Library
We Help You Learn.

LIBRARY MISSION
The Library is an integral part of the Wilmington University academic community and supports the delivery of academic programs by:

• Collecting and facilitating access to information in multiple formats.
• Linking to global networks.
• Guiding our academic community to think critically in the evaluation and ethical use of information.
• Providing adaptive learning spaces and the technologies to support research and the creation of knowledge.
• Preserving the scholarly record and unique content of the University.

VISION
The Wilmington University Library is a destination for the discovery of knowledge, offering research guidance, essential information resources, state-of-the-art technologies, learning spaces, and a service-oriented staff guiding the transformation of information services and innovative collaborations.
Research Options

FIND ARTICLES AND MORE
Ready to start your research? Look up articles using the online library. From the Library homepage, type your terms in the Discover search box or click on Find Articles and More to choose a specific database.

FIND BOOKS AND eBOOKS
Use the Delaware Library Catalog to search for books and other materials. Log into your MyAccount to request and renew online.

The Library provides access to more than 100,000 eBooks. Use the Discover search box on the Library homepage to get started. Type in your search terms, then on the results page, select the box next to eBook under Format > Show More to narrow your search. For more information on eBooks or to search specific collections, click on Find eBooks from the Library homepage.

SUBJECT/COURSE GUIDES
Subject guides and Course guides are created by librarians for research assistance, database suggestions, and other useful resources. View all the available guides by selecting Subject/Course Guides beneath Research on the Library homepage.

DISSERTATION/CAPSTONE COLLECTION
Wilmington University Dissertation Collection is available freely online and in full-text. Search the dissertation collection by clicking on Find Dissertations/Theses from the Library homepage.
